After 35 years in practice, Bill McLees has developed extensive experience in programming and design of a wide variety of projects. Bill has led design teams that included both multi-state and international team members.

Bill has worked well with local, state, and federal clients in the design of a variety of civic, education, and health care facilities. And he has provided design services for many private sector projects, including banks, retail facilities, industrial facilities, and churches.

He is skilled in the use of modeling and imaging software. This allows him to provide clients with realistic views of proposed design layouts. Bill has been involved in beta testing architectural software, and he is an award-winning graphic illustrator.
